THE POSTOTELE PARKING.—Commissioner Douglass said to a Cerric reporter afternoon that, in all probability, the District would give its consent, provided property holders in the immediate vicinity would do the same, to the United States to take away the parking in front of the present temporary city postoffice building to make a driveway in place of said park-

DISUSED GAS LANTERNS.

Citizens Complain That They Are Un-sightly and Should He Removed. lain becaused the disused gas posts are allowed to remain standing. They fall to see why these discarded and unsightly relics of the era of street gas should be permitted to longer encumber the sidewalks.

Inquiry at the gas office this morning developed the fact that the gas company had no control whatever over these posts and lanterns. They were paid for by the District and belonged to the District. The only authority the company exercised over them was to keep them in recased over them was to keep them in re-pair when they were in service.

Altogether, so the reporter was advised, there are 5,186 gas posts standing in the city limits. Of this number about 300 had been dismanted and electric lights had been substituted for them. These discussed lanterns are scattered along the disassed lanterns are scattered along the Avenue, F, Ninth, Seventh and E streets, covering quite an area.

The gas official went further to say that it would be a serious undertaking to remove the posts. They cost originally something over $1,700 apiece and in case they were uproofed and Congress should fail to provide an appropriation for the electric lights the Avenue and the other streets named would be in darkness.

A prominent mercantile firm, W. D. Clark & Co. of $11 Market Space, complain of the presence of one of these dilapidated posts which stand immediately in front of their store. It is unsightly and somewhat out of plumb. They will gladly pay the cost of its removal if permitted to get rid at it.

Would it not be a good idea to dig up the disused posts and store them, or if this is too expensive a job cannot the Commissioners devise a way to cap them in some ornamental style and keep them welthe new postofiles is built. The owners are willing to pay the cost of the extension if the Government will lease the place for five years at a cost of $11,000 per annum.

They also offer for rent the adjoining building east at a cost of $2,500 yearly, the necessary repairs to be made at the cost of the postal authorities.

It is not likely that the Commissioners will permit a building to be erected over the sidewalk. It would depreciate the value of property on the south side of Louisiana avenue west of Sixth street, which fact the owners in that vicinity already know. They would vigorously protest against such encreachment on their rights should the Commissioners act favorably on the suggestion made.

Busy Thieves. Burglars are a burgling and thieves thieving. For instance:

Mary E. Sharer lost a cloak and some air carpet from her residence. W. C. turvell reports that 1434 Q street, a vacant bouse, was entered in the night and a lot of gas flatures torn from their fastening carried off.

Charles W. Hopkins tells the police that he was relieved of a gold chatelaine watch at Mt. Pleasant.

George White reports that his house at Brightwood was entered by way of the window, and a lot of groceries stulen.

Charles Werner reports that he had stolen from him on Monday a lot of valuable jewelry, including a gold ring set with sixteen turquoises and two pearls.

Wants to be Law-Abiding. On the 16th day of December-last John Sailes was arrested, charged with being sails was arrested, charged with osing a vagrant. He was sent to the workhouse for five months, and since his incarreration has repeatedly written the Commissioners to pardon him.

Commissioner Boughass says says "Lashim stay where he is." Sailes says, if released, he will become a law abiding either, but, being an old offender, he will be forced to occupy his present quarters for eighty days more.

MAGRUDER'S BAD BOY.

ROBBED HIS PAPA AS A STARTER AND THEN CAME HERE.

His Subsequent Exploits us a Railroad Conductor - Spotters Caught Him Doing the "Knock-Down" Act, But Charlie Has Quit the Town Now,

About three years ago an honest farmer named Magruder, residing in one of the lower counties of Maryland, was made custodian of quite a sum of money which had been collected for a church of which he was a member. Mr. Magruder's son stole this money from his father's house, and to save his son the father mortgaged his farm and made the deficiency good. The son left home and came to this city and secured a position as conductor on the W. & G. R. R. He had not been employed but a little time before he began robbing both the company and his fellow employes. He completely cleaned out a boarding-house up on Fourteenth street, and a week later was caught stealing from the company and discharged out a boarding-house up on Fourteenth street, and a week later was caught stealing from the company and discharged, but lately reinstated. He robbed one conductor of $29 and another of $17.50.

His latest exploit was to write lying reports to the president of the company concerning certain employes, and although the officers of the company knew him to be crooked, they discharged seven men upon reports furnished by him. The system of riding on checks by employes of the company has been suspended all on account of one of Magnuder's false statements and hereafter employes—unless going to or from work—will have to pay their fare. Thus nearly 400 people are injured by the act of one scamp. Charlie has quit the town, and it is well for him that he did, for the Friends of those who have been injured are looking for him.

"Mac is non cot," said a knight of the bell punch on the Avenue line of cars this morning, speaking of young Magnuder, who has decamped for parts unknown. The young man came here several years ago and secured a position as conductor on the Georgetown Railway at a salary of $2 per day.

He was recognized as a model young man and was an active church member. His style of living exceeded his salary and it is stated that he purloimed $61 of his room mate's money. Upon his promising to do better Magnuder was not prosecuted and all went well until the register in the bell punch showed a larger number of farce than had been turned in by the young man.

Spotters were put on his car, and they fares than had been turned in by the young man.

Spatters were put on his car, and they were not long in ascertaining Magrader's style of robbing. Taking a transfer he would hold it under the blue slip and register it. Superintendent Sailor confronted Magrader with the facts stated, and offered to reinstate him providing he would tell where he secured the transfers. He gave the names of several conductors of the Fourteenth-street line and the transfer agent at New York avenue.

The last named proved his innocence and the conductors were immediately discharged. Later developments have shown that Magrader would, when his car was loaded, drop transfers received at either First, Seventh or Fifteenth streets to the floor with the remark: "I can't get then until we get to Georgetown or the Navy-Yard." He did and used them as above-described, and by his lying other conductors lost their situations.

He changed his boarding-house recently and west to live and out to the streets.

Mr. Samuel Bleber, a real estate operator, next took the stand. The Avenue front in square $25, he said, was worth from $20 to $24 a foot, or an average of $22.50 a foot. Dowling's corner was worth every cent of $25 a foot.

To Mr. Mattingly Mr. Bieber said: "I will back up my opinion on this matter with cash, and will give $20 a foot for it as a speculation, and will allow you $1,000 commission if you secure it for me." Mr. Bieber was further questioned about other lots. He was of the opinion that the Baker property, at Twelfth and C streets, was worth from $10 to $15 a square foot.

Mr. H. Clay Stewart testified as an expert in real estate matters. He agreed with Mr. Bieber that the Avenue front would average $22.50 a square foot. He hased his opinion on the fact that the property in question is centrally located, being near the market and the big wholesale establishments. There was a general growth of values in real estate matters all over the city.

PRINTERS' POLITICS.

THE ANNUAL ELECTION OF COLUM-BIA TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION.

A Hotly-Contested Campaign, But One Conducted in an Orderly Manner-Kennedy Re-Elected President by a Small Majority-The Vote in Detail.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union yesterday was conducted without excitement, despite the deep interest felt by the 1,340 members in the re cult. The election was held in the chapels of the larger offices and at the office of the secretary at 425 Twelfth street. The time required to collect the chapel boxes delayed the beginning of the count until 8 o'clock in the evening. The count was necessarily slow, and was not completed until this morning.

The method of voting by chapels, the father of each chapel superintending the election, assisted by two supervisors, was tried for the first time. Each of these was paid fifty cents an hour for his services, the chapel polls being open for two hours. There are quite a number of chapels, each division of the Government Printing Office having one, as well as The Chirte and the other daily papers, and at least one job office. The total cost of holding the election foots up over $300, falling somewhere between $250 and $350. This is a greater amount than any election here. where between 8520 and 8530. This is a greater amount than any election here-tofore has cost, but a good deal of the money goes to members of the union, whereas in former years it went chiefly to some landlord for the use of a build-ing for a day and night. One strong point in favor of the new plan is that it brought out a larger yote than the old one ever did. Elke the Australian system, adopted by some of the States, this new plan involves a great deal of red tape. Whether the new plan has come to stay remains for the future to determine.

The chief interest in the result centred in the contest for president. The candidates were J. L. Kennedy, the present incumbent, and W. W. Maloney of the Stay, a former president.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Beston Symphony Orchestea. Every seat in the Academy of Music from pit to dome was occupied last night and there was standing room only, for the belated. It was the largest and most fashionable audience of the season. The uppermost gallery was filled with refined and enthusiastic lovers of music.

The programme was as follows and comprised selections from the best works of Wassier.

Wagner:
Overture and Baechanale from "Tannbaeuser" (Paris varsion); Lohengrin's legend from "Lohengrin;" Mr. Dippel.
Walweben from "Siegfried" duet. "In Neuen Thaten," from "Die Goetferdaemmerung," Mrs. Mielke, Mr. Dippel. Siegfried's Passage to Brumbilde's Rock, Morning Dawn, and Rhine Journey, from
"Die Goetferdaemmerung," (Richter's arrangement.) Prelude and Closing Scene from "Tristan und Isolde" Isolde, Mrs.
Mielke. Soloists, Mrs. Antonia Mielke,
Mr. Andreas Dippel.

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Nikisch, was in great form, each member an artist, and all in the fullest sympathy with the composer and the conductor. Those who sneer at Wagner and predicted a thin and Ignorant audience were doubtless disappointed to see such an array of the elife of Washington.
Although this is Passion week, and many stayed away, there has rarely been such an assembly of society people on any similar stayed away, there has rarely been such an assembly of society people on any similar occasion.

It is not our purpose to enter into any discussion of the merits or defects of Wagner and his poculiar and original school of "music of the future." Wagner has certainly fought his way to the front in spite of the bitterest opposition in every capitol in Europe, outside of Germany. There can be no question as to the magnificence, wealth and originality of his ideas, instrumentation and harmonies. There is nothing thin or commonplace. Breadth, power and an almost supernatural use of all the multifarious resources of each instrument as a unit, and all as a whole, mark his orchestration.

His music is a succession of wierd and wonderful surprises, harmony and not a succession of melodies being the chief characteristics. Inder the magic wand of his genius the orchestra gives forth a tempest of harmony, always changing from the most delicate and fairy-like movements to a storm of the deepest and most passionate chords. The music of Wagner is as variable and restless as the ocean—one moment all calmness, subtle sweetness and ethereal in its daintiness, the next a hurricane of harmony and a chromatique cyclone. It is purely an intellectual school and appeals more to the mind than to the heart, although entrancing at times when the composer permits feeling and not intellectual vanity tos way his mood.

Where every number was given with consummate taste and in the highest form of musical interpretation, it is impossible to say that any one number of the programme was better given than another.

Mrs. Antonia Mielke achieved a distinct art success by her superb singing in the "Neuen Thaten" duet with Mr. Andreas Dippel and in the closing scene from "Tristan und Isolde." Mrs. Mielke has a remarkably fine voice, clear, fresh, and sympathetic, and of course exquisitely cultivated. Mr. Dippel gave Lohengrin's "Legend" with the effect. He is an artist, indeed, young, and with a voice of great purity, sweetness, and strength. The applause was enthusiastic and the audience a charmed one.

Lieutenant Harries' Lecture. Lieutenant Harries' Lecture.

Lieutenant George H. Harries of the District National Guard and other institudons is going to break out like the measles upon the community. Lieutenant Harrics is going to lecture. When the identicant lectures there will be crudition nientement lectures there will be erudition and a flow of words. The Lieutenant is going to orate at Hamline Chu.ch, North and P streets, and he will his tale unfold to-morrow evening. His subject will be "The Indian On and Off the Warpath, With Incidental and Personal Experiences." He was out Northwest during the recent trouble and he will give his hearers a good talk. The only mistake that the Lieutenant makes is in subscribing himself as "staff correspondent of the Economy Star at Pine Bidge." If folks did not know that Lieutenant Harries is a newspaper man they would think from that subscription that he is a journalist.
